SEPTIC TANK

Ozzi Kleen Septic Tanks are made from tough polyethylene and are weight for weight stronger than concrete. These septic tanks are an ideal alternative to treat your waste water when connection to the sewer, access to power, or site accessibility are restricted.

Ozzi Kleen Septic Tanks are the only 4,500L single piece septic tank available and are a lightweight alternative to the old heavy concrete tanks.

This tough one-piece polyethylene moulded septic tank does not suffer the issue of root intrusion or concrete erosion. The lightweight design reduces the installation costs as the system can be delivered on a standard utility vehicle and a large crane or crane truck is not required to install the tank.

Weighing approximately 300kg the Ozzi Kleen ST10 Septic Tank (ST10A approx. 375kg) can easily be rolled into position and installed with a small machine or even by hand if needed. This is important when the location of the septic is hard to access.

These tanks can be installed in much less time than a concrete tank as there are no joins to seal, no confined spaces entry issues and the tank can be used as soon as it has been installed without waiting for bonding joining glue to dry.

There are two options available, the ST10 which is a single tank designed to treat to primary class water or the ST10A which is a baffled tank designed to reduce the solids from the effluent. These tanks are the perfect size to suit up to a 5 bedroom house (10 person) which is the largest underground poly tank on the market to date. (AS NZ 1546.1, septic tank for 4-6 bedroom house = 4,500litre minimum tank volume).

All of our Septic Tanks come with a welded in Akatherm inlet and outlet to accept 100mm DWV PVC pipe.
